Your responsibilities:

- Analysing existing production workflows and processes and identifying opportunities for optimisation
- Designing and optimising workstations, equipment, workflows and processes on the shop floor in accordance with 5S standards
- Actively promoting a lean culture through the use of appropriate lean methods, as well as planning and delivering workshops and training courses
- Further development and support of shop floor management and the continuous improvement process (CIP) in production and logistics
- Planning and implementing projects in the production environment, e.g. in the areas of capital expenditure and operating resources
- Providing support for projects relating to health and safety at work, e.g. in the preparation of operating instructions, health and safety documents and layouts, in collaboration with the HSE Manager
- Supporting shop floor managers on matters relating to 5S, Lean Management and health and safety
- Collaborating on and carrying out internal audits in the areas of safety and 5S

Your profile:

- Completed technical training (HTL, workshop foreman or similar) or a relevant technical degree
- Professional experience in lean management and, ideally, in occupational health and safety, preferably in a production-related environment
- A good basic understanding of and keen interest in occupational health and safety, Lean Management, 5S and project management
- Experience in using ERP systems, particularly in the areas of warehouse and materials management, would be an advantage
- Very good written and spoken German and good written and spoken English

What you can expect:

- A variety of projects within a motivated team
- Modern equipment and well-equipped production halls
- Numerous additional benefits: Fruit, company doctor, gym subsidy, ...
- Opportunities for professional development within a successful industrial company with a family-like corporate culture
- Canteen serving regional specialities
- The opportunity to play an active role in shaping the company's future
